Public trust in the BBC
Survey details

• The following data comes from a nationally representative survey by Kantar Media for the BBC. This is an on-going monthly survey of c1,000 UK adults per month that allows us to gauge public opinion of the BBC on a regular basis

• As part of this survey, Kantar Media has been tracking public perceptions of trust and general impression of the BBC since 2004

• Respondents are asked to rate the following statements:
  • ‘I trust the BBC’ and give a score on a scale of 1 to 10 where 1 is strongly disagree and 10 is strongly agree
  • ‘Thinking about the BBC as a whole – not just the programmes, but the sort of organisation the BBC is and the way it goes about providing a public broadcasting service. Overall, what do you think of the BBC? On a scale of 1 to 10, where 1 means extremely unfavourable and 10 means extremely favourable, please tell me your general impression of the BBC’

• The BBC also publishes the average general impression score for the year in its Annual Report
People’s trust has shown some recovery since autumn 2012 though remains a little below early 2012 levels. Trust is higher now than in 2004.
