BBC Alba

This Service Licence covers the television output of the MG Alba, branded BBC Alba. MG Alba radio is covered by the Radio nan Gàidheal Service Licence, and online activities are covered by the BBC Online Service Licence.

Part I: Key characteristics of the service

1. Remit
The remit of BBC Alba is to offer a mix of genres, including television news and weather. It should aim to serve Gaelic speakers, those learning the language, those that might wish to learn, and those interested in the language and culture. It should aim to reflect and support Gaelic culture, identity and heritage.

2. Scope of this Licence
BBC Alba should be available for around seven hours each day. It should be transmitted free to air for general reception in the UK as a live broadcast on digital television platforms and it may be simulcast on fixed and mobile internet protocol networks.

It may also offer its broadcast content on fixed and mobile internet protocol networks or via other platforms for seven days after it has been broadcast. On the same platforms, it may allow users retrospectively or prospectively via pre-booking to download multiple episodes of first-run series (known as “series stacking”) until a date no later than seven days after the last episode in the relevant series. The aggregate volume of such “series stacked” content must represent no more than 15 per cent of all television content offered on-demand. On the internet, it may give users 30 days after downloading the content to access it for the first time and may

1 Provision by particular providers over certain platforms has been specifically approved by the Trust in its Public Value Test final conclusions of April 2007. Content may also in future be syndicated to other providers and platforms, in accordance with the Trust’s Syndication Policy for BBC on-demand content.

2 The Trust’s guidelines for which programmes may be included in series stacking are those where the series has a distinct run, with a beginning and an end and a clear “narrative arc” or those with exceptionally high impact. These should cover a broad range of programmes, in terms of genre and appeal.
allow users to repeatedly consume downloaded content for up to seven days after first access.

BBC Alba should offer programme-related content on bbc.co.uk.³

Should at any time MG Alba withdraw from its partnership with the BBC or fail to provide agreed funding for the service, then approval for the service will be withdrawn and this licence will be revoked.

3. Service budget

BBC Alba is funded jointly by the BBC and by MG Alba. The total budget for BBC Alba was £13.68m in 2008/09. The BBC’s contribution to this budget, as covered by this Service Licence, is £4.8m in 2012/13.

The BBC’s contribution to this budget may be adjusted annually for Retail Price Inflation. Any planned or actual change in the BBC’s annual expenditure on the service of more than 10 per cent in real value requires approval from the BBC Trust and may entail variation of this Service Licence. The Trust’s approval will also be required if total funding of MG Alba changes by more than 10 per cent in real value.

4. Overview of aims and objectives

Programmes on BBC Alba should exhibit some or all of the following characteristics: high quality, original, challenging, innovative and engaging, and they should nurture UK talent.

The service should deliver its remit through high-quality programmes with wide appeal across a range of genres. It should show some originated television programming, including output first shown on other BBC services. BBC Alba should commission original programming across a range of genres, including news, weather, sports, live events, children’s, music and entertainment, factual programming, educational output and some comedy and drama.

Its news and current affairs output should be accurate, impartial and independent.

BBC Alba should support Scottish and Gaelic music and arts, and should represent the BBC’s main outlet for events of particular significance to Gaelic speakers. It should commission work from new and established talent.

When the television service is not being transmitted, BBC Alba may simulcast BBC Radio nan Gàidheal.

BBC Alba is committed to commissioning output from independent suppliers, in accordance with the BBC’s statutory commitments.

³ This includes the offer of some news and current affairs output on-demand for an unlimited time period after initial broadcast. Any expansion of this offering will require the approval of the BBC Trust
Part II: Contribution to public value

5. Contribution to the promotion of the BBC’s public purposes

5.1 Reflecting the UK’s nations, regions and communities

BBC Alba should make a very important contribution to this purpose amongst its audience by reflecting and strengthening Gaelic cultural heritage and promoting awareness of it across the UK.

It should do so by its provision of output in the Gaelic language for those who speak the language, and by its role in encouraging and enabling others to learn Gaelic. BBC Alba is aimed primarily at Gaelic speakers within Scotland, although it should also be available on some platforms to those outside Scotland.

It should achieve these aims across all types of programming. In particular, its factual output should reflect topics of interest and relevance to the Gaelic community. In addition, religious and sports programming should represent the diversity of interests within the Gaelic community. It should aim to draw the Gaelic community together to share sporting, cultural and musical occasions.

5.2 Promoting education and learning

BBC Alba should make an important contribution to this purpose by offering regular support to those learning the Gaelic language with its programming, and by offering learning resources alongside its programming, including subtitles and additional online content. It should work with external partners in the Gaelic education sector to promote learning of the Gaelic language.

BBC Alba should offer programming for both pre-school and older children in regular slots each week.

BBC Alba should provide opportunities for informal learning across a wide range of subjects in its factual output. It may take part in pan-BBC learning campaigns, adapting them where necessary to enhance their appeal to Gaelic-speaking audiences.

Conditions

BBC Alba should:

- Broadcast around 5 hours of originated programming (excluding news) each week, including programming first shown on other BBC services. At least 2 hours per week of all originated programming should be aimed at those learning the Gaelic language.
5.3 Sustaining citizenship and civil society

BBC Alba should contribute to this purpose amongst its audience through its provision of accurate, impartial and independent news and current affairs shown in peak viewing times.

It should broadcast live news programmes each weekday evening, including at peaktime, and a longer news review at weekends.

It should aim to originate some news material itself, as well as providing re-versioned news content gathered by the BBC elsewhere.

Its journalism should focus on issues of relevance to the Gaelic speaking target audience. Political coverage, including coverage of elections, should focus on Scottish affairs, but also cover the Westminster and European parliaments, as appropriate.

The service should enable audiences and experts to explore a broad range of subjects and to engage and interact on these issues.

Some content should be made available for on-demand viewing online after broadcast.

Conditions

BBC Alba should:

- Broadcast live news programmes each weekday evening, including at peak time, and a longer news review at weekends.

5.4 Stimulating creativity and cultural excellence

BBC Alba should contribute to this purpose amongst its audience, both by supporting established talent and by developing new talent. It should contribute to the creative economy in Scotland by commissioning programming from independent suppliers.

The service should support Scottish music and arts by broadcasting a range of styles of music-making and other performance, including traditional and contemporary music.

BBC Alba should commission some original comedy and drama each year.

Conditions

BBC Alba should:

- Commission at least 50 per cent by volume of its original programming (excluding news) from independent producers.
5.5 Bringing the UK to the world and the world to the UK

BBC Alba should play its part in this purpose, primarily by bringing the world to the UK, by regularly covering international events and issues in Gaelic, and through its news output. It should bring the Scottish Gaelic community to the world by making Gaelic language content available on BBC Online.

5.6 Emerging communications

The BBC’s sixth public purpose is defined in the Charter as "in promoting its other purposes, helping to deliver to the public the benefit of emerging communications technologies and services and, in addition, taking a leading role in the switchover to digital television".

BBC Alba should contribute to the promotion of this purpose in a variety of ways which are described in this Service Licence.
6. Annexes to this Licence

6.1 Annex I - Performance assessment

The performance of BBC Alba will be assessed by the BBC Trust using the framework described in Annex I. BBC Alba’s compliance with any Conditions, as described in section 5, will also be measured on an annual basis and reported in the Annual Report and Accounts.

The BBC Trust will expect BBC Alba to comply with the commitments described in sections 4 and 5 of the Service Licence. The BBC Trust will monitor compliance with these commitments retrospectively as part of its periodic service reviews and/or on an exceptional basis if there is evidence or allegation of non-compliance.

6.2. Annex II - Statutory commitments

Details of statutory quotas and other obligations to be fulfilled by BBC Alba, in conjunction with other BBC services, are set out in Service Licence Annex II.

7. Operation of this Service Licence by the BBC Trust

For details of how the BBC Trust operates this Service Licence, please see the Service Licence Operating Framework. This is available from www.bbc.co.uk/bbctrust or upon request from the BBC Trust Unit.
Annex I: Performance measurement framework

Introduction
The BBC Trust has the function of assessing the performance of the Executive Board in delivering the BBC’s services and activities and holding the Executive Board to account for its performance. It will use the framework described below as the basis for its assessment of BBC Alba.

The framework is based around the four drivers of public value: Reach, Quality, Impact and Value for money and it includes measurement of the five content characteristics, as described in the BBC Agreement: high quality, challenging, original, innovative and engaging.

The Trust can amend this framework without this constituting formal variation to this Service Licence.

Performance measurement framework
Reach: BBC Alba should contribute towards the maintenance of combined BBC weekly reach at over 90 per cent by aiming to increase its own weekly reach to around 500,000 people each week.

Quality: Audience approval of BBC Alba and perceptions of it as high quality and innovative. Also, the proportion of originated programmes across all hours.

Impact: Audience perceptions of BBC Alba as engaging and challenging.

Value for money: BBC Alba’s cost per viewer hour.
