You know what they like to eat, but how many can you spot?

Collared dove – Smaller than wood pigeons, these seed- and grain-loving birds have a distinctive collar and a familiar and clear ‘coo’.

Dunnock – Often seen on its own, creeping along the edge of a flower bed or near to a bush, this small bird enjoys tucking into insects, spiders, worms and seeds.

Goldfinch – Attractive bird, with a delightful, twittering song and long, fine beak, which allows it to extract hard-to-reach seeds from thistles and teasels.

Greenfinch – A popular and colourful garden visitor, with a passion for black sunflower seeds and a tendency to squabble with other birds over food.

Great tit – The UK’s largest tit, this striking bird fills up on insects in the summer but takes in large numbers of seeds throughout autumn and winter.

Robin – Instantly recognisable, robins are aggressively territorial and quick to drive away intruders. They love singing next to street lights and eating mealworms.
