Doctor in the House

The game in a nutshell
Slip quotations from Doctor Who into everyday conversations and you score points if no-one notices what you’re doing! You could be in the school yard or in a meeting, talking to the President or your friends, just smuggle those lines into a chat and you get the points!

How you score
Every time you quote the Doctor (from the Doctor in the House list) you score some points. The harder the quotation, the more points you get!

If someone so much as raises an eyebrow or asks ‘What are you on about?’, you do not get the points. Bah humbug, but that’s the rule! Your challenge is to sneakily use as many Doctor in the House lines as you can without anyone realising what you’re doing.

And if you hear someone trying to use one of the lines you can get a bonus ten points by shouting, ‘Doctor in the house!’

How to play
You can set yourself a target score-line and play ‘Doctor in the House’ for a bit of festive fun on your own. Or you can challenge your mates, compare scores amongst yourselves and the person with the lowest score has to buy the mince pies at Christmas. The game can be played over a fixed period of an hour, a day or a fortnight – it’s up to you!

What lines are acceptable?
A complete list of lines is given below, plus the number of points that using them successfully wins you.

(Doctor in the) House Rules
- You cannot score points from the same line twice in the same game.
- You must say the lines loud and clear! No muttering under your breath.
- You can devise your own variations of the game like Pond’s Ponderings using Amy’s quips and quotations, lines from Christmas specials or use the words from any of the Doctor’s friends and foes.
- But the main rule is have loads of Yuletide fun playing Doctor in the House!
I probably better go. You know me. Stuff to do.
☐ 1 point

Something not very good indeed.
☐ 2 points

I knew you were going to say that. Did anyone else know he was going to say that?
☐ 3 points

This is the most beautiful parlour I have ever seen.
☐ 4 points

That's how we greet each other nowadays, isn't it?
☐ 5 points

Talk about cross! Who stole all their handbags?
☐ 6 points

I'm the Ghost of Christmas Past.
☐ 7 points

Legs! I've still got legs!
☐ 8 points

Have you been telling people I'm dead?
☐ 9 points

I'm a girl! No, no… I'm not a girl.
☐ 10 points

I know evil when I see it and I see it in that window.
☐ 11 points

The waves of time wash us all clean.
☐ 12 points

Between you and me, if that day ever comes… I think the whole universe might just shiver.
☐ 13 points

It was the daisiest daisy I'd ever seen.
☐ 14 points
And those pathetic little patches of sludgy snow were shining white in the sunlight.

There are some corners of the universe that have bred the most terrible things. Things that act against everything we believe in. They must be fought.

But the last time I was dying I looked back on all of you, every single one.

Daleks, Sontarans... Cybermen... They're still in the nursery compared to us.

Well, in view of the facts that I've already presented - the ray gun, this pen and one or two other things - I think we're dealing with people who are not from this planet.

Have you ever thought what it's like to be wanderers in the fourth dimension? Have you?

Doctor in the House Bonus Points

TOTAL