

This is not a word-for-word transcript

Let's learn some ways to say tired in British English.

I am absolutely knackered.

Knackered means very tired. As it's an extreme adjective we can say absolutely knackered.

I am worn out.

We say worn out when we're tired because we were busy.

I am spent. When you have no more energy you are spent.

I'm just completely done in.

We can also say done in and this is an adjective phrase.

Now excuse me because I am going to conk out.

- And that is a phrasal verb which means go to sleep.

Good night!