

The Story

When Harry and Meghan parted ways with royal life and royal funding, many were left wondering what commercial ventures they might pursue. The combination of a proven Hollywood star and an international star, in the form of a prince, made broadcasting an obvious choice.

The multi-year deal will reportedly see the couple produce a variety of programmes from documentaries to children's shows for the platform's almost two hundred million subscribers. How much the contract is worth, like so many things in royal life, is private.
