Mathias (Richard Harrington) is under investigation by the IPCC following a death when his wife, Meg, makes an unexpected appearance bringing with her painful memories. FROM WALES TO PATAGONIA: A MUSICAL JOURNEY
Thursday, December 24, BBC Two Wales, 6.30pm

BBC National Orchestra of Wales, world-renowned harpist Catrin Finch and conductor Grant Llewellyn, set out on an incredible tour to inspire young musicians in Patagonia.

Taking their educational project on tour with them for the first time, BBC National Orchestra of Wales tackles its most ambitious tour to date, and the programme follows the players on an emotional journey.

They hope to crown a week of music making in the community with an historic performance in a converted wool warehouse - the first time an international symphony orchestra has ever performed in the region. But it's a race against time to turn an old industrial shed into a venue fit for a gala concert.
