The King asked
The Queen, and
The Queen asked
The Dairymaid:
‘Could we have some butter for
The Royal slice of bread?’
The Queen asked
The Dairymaid,
The Dairymaid
Said, ‘Certainly,
I’ll go and tell the cow
Now
Before she goes to bed.’

The Dairymaid
She curtsied,
And went and told
The Alderney:
‘Don’t forget the butter for
The Royal slice of bread.’
The Alderney
Said sleepily:
‘You’d better tell
His Majesty
That many people nowadays
Like marmalade
Instead.’
The Dairymaid
   Said, ‘Fancy!’
   And went to
   Her Majesty.
   She curtsied to the Queen, and
   She turned a little red:
   ‘Excuse me,
    Your Majesty,
    For taking of
    The liberty,
    But marmalade is tasty, if
    It’s very
    Thickly
    Spread.’

The Queen said
   ‘Oh!’
   And went to
   His Majesty:
   ‘Talking of the butter for
    The Royal slice of bread,
    Many people
    Think that Marmalade
    Is nicer.
    Would you like to try a little
    Marmalade
    Instead?’
The King said, ‘Bother!’
And then he said, ‘Oh, deary me!’
The King sobbed, ‘Oh, deary me!’
And went back to bed.
‘Nobody,’
He whimpered,
‘Could call me
A fussy man;
I only want
A little bit
Of butter for
My bread!’

The Queen said, ‘There, there!’
And went to
The Dairymaid.
The Dairymaid
Said, ‘There, there!’
And went to the shed.
The cow said,
‘There, there!
I didn’t really
Mean it;
Here’s milk for his porringer,
And butter for his bread.’
The Queen took
The butter
And brought it to
His Majesty;
The King said,
‘Butter, eh?’
And bounced out of bed.
‘Nobody,’ he said,
As he kissed her
Tenderly,
‘Nobody,’ he said,
As he slid down
The banisters,
‘Nobody,
My darling,
Could call me
A fussy man—
BUT
I do like a little bit of butter to my bread!’
