For each of the six questions choose the one correct answer.

1. I lost my wallet last week, but __________ I didn’t have any money or credit cards in it at the time.
   a) luckily
   b) hopefully
   c) generally
   d) unfortunately

‘Luckily’ means it was lucky or fortunate e.g. I forgot to lock my car but luckily it wasn’t stolen!

‘Hopefully’ refers to something in the future which I hope will happen.

‘Generally’ refers to something which happens usually or often, e.g. I generally get to work about 9 o’clock.

‘Unfortunately’ means it was unlucky.

2. I waited ages for the bus; one _________ came an hour later!
   a) generally
   b) presumably
   c) ideally
   d) eventually

‘Generally’ refers to something which happens usually or often, e.g. I generally get to work about 9 o’clock.

‘Presumably’ refers to something which I assume will happen or is true, e.g. Presumably he’ll call me when he arrives.

‘Ideally’ is used to describe something that I think is the best or perfect e.g. Our new flatmate will ideally clean and tidy around the house.

‘Eventually’ refers to something which took longer than expected to happen.

3. I’ve studied hard, so ___________ I’ll pass the exam.
   a) originally
   b) hopefully
   c) generally
   d) apparently

‘Originally’ refers to how something was at a time before it changed e.g. He was originally a teacher before he became a TV presenter.

‘Hopefully’ refers to something in the future which I hope will happen.

‘Generally’ refers to something which happens usually or often, e.g. I generally get to work about 9 o’clock.
‘Apparently’ refers to something which appears to be true but I’m not 100% sure (it’s often used for gossip!) e.g. Mary was saying that apparently he’s in trouble with the police.

4. My grandad ______ has a little sleep after lunch.
   a) eventually
   b) generally
   c) hopefully
   d) originally
