

Title: I am the smartest kid

by Tai Chen Yu, Singapore

Scene 1:

Highly Smart kid: Hello, I am a very uninteresting kid and my IQ level is over 200. Very smart eh?
I bet you had not been taught by a kid smarter than 'The Teacher.'
Now you probably never heard of the idiom, "A 'stone's throw"
'A 'stone's throw' means very near!"

(Throw a stone)

(New Scene: Mt Everest)

Narrator: Ahhh, see that stone falling on Mt Everest? That highly smart kid threw that stone.

(Back to the 1st Scene)

Highly Smart kid: Now you call that a 'stone's throw'? Hey, I broke the world record!

Scene 2:

(Highly Smart kid is fighting with the brother)

Mother : You two cat and dog, stop fighting !"

Highly Smart kid : My mother always scolds us cat and dog because we fight like cat and dog ,aren't we?
In English when people fight or argue bitterly, they are said to 'fight like cat(cats)and dog(dogs)

Scene 3:

Highly smart kid: Sob, sob My favourite uncle kicked the bucket yesterday.
In English, 'kick the bucket' means someone died.
(Bucket suddenly appears)Hey! what's that piece of junk doing here?
(Kicks the bucket away)Uh-oh.....

Scene 4:

(A tombstone on floor with 'highly smart kid' craved on)

Last Note:

I really like 'The Teacher's lessons because they are very funny and I can learn many different idioms.
