

BBC Environmental Management

Policy Statement

The BBC exists to enrich people's lives with programmes and services that inform, educate and entertain. Our vision is to be the most creative organisation in the world and we recognise that Environmental Management is an important consideration in delivering this vision. Our overall objective is to carry out our operations in a way which minimises and aims to continually reduce our environmental impact. We will always comply with all applicable legislation in this area.

We aim to reduce our environmental impact by:

- Setting environmental objectives and targets which relate to our significant environmental impacts;
- Having effective monitoring, measuring and reporting of our significant environmental impacts, including implementing an environmental risk management system that meets with the requirements of ISO14001; and
- Providing our staff with access to suitable and sufficient environmental information, instruction and training

We also work with suppliers and other third parties to ensure appropriate standards of environmental management are achieved, focussing on clear communication so that our partners are aware of our environmental expectations.

Environmental management is everyone's responsibility and I expect everyone to contribute towards achieving our overall objectives. The Executive and I want all of our people to be aware of their individual environmental responsibilities and to be actively engaged and committed to improving standards of environmental management.

Tony Hall

Director General

September 2016

Next Review Date: August 2018